Travel news

These are some of the best European cities worth checking out this month, along with information on their Covid requirements.

Paris

Paris is home to many of Europe's top art galleries. Newly opened at the Musée de l'Orangerie, Impressionist Decorations: Tracing The Roots of Monet's Water Lilies features work by Cézanne, Degas and Monet. Combine with a stroll along the Seine.

How: Kirker Holidays (kirkerholidays.com) offers three nights B&B at the Pavillon de la Reine from £858pp (two sharing), including a return with the Eurostar and a two-day Museum Pass. Offer on stays until May 15.

Covid requirements: Non-vaccinated are required to provide proof of a negative Covid test and may be asked to test on arrival.

Rome

Wander along ancient streets and gaze at dramatic ruins such as the Colosseum and the Forum. Stroll to the Vatican to explore the Sistine Chapel and take in Michelangelo's Pietà at St Peter's Basilica, or stop for a gelato at the Spanish Steps.

How: Ramblers Holidays (ramblersholidays.co.uk) offers a seven-night escorted Roman Holiday tour from £1,579pp including flights, breakfasts and five dinners.

Covid requirements: Only non-vaccinated will be asked for proof of a negative Covid test.

Copenhagen

The Danish capital is easy to explore on two wheels. In July, the Tour de France will start in these streets. Green Bikes offers a three-hour tour. From €34.

How: British Airways (britishairways.com) offers a two-night B&B stay at the Tivoli Hotel, including flights from London, from £228.

Covid requirements: None.

St Helier, Jersey

Jersey's capital offers all the finesse of a European sojourn without having to travel too far. Packed with excellent restaurants and opportunities for tax-free shopping, it's an easy weekend break. Embark on a Jersey Seafari (RIB boat ride jerseyseafaris.com; from £30pp), with a hop over to France for lunch.

How: Channel Escapes (channelescapes.com) offers a three-night B&B stay at The Royal Yacht Hotel start from £398pp, including flights and transfers.

Covid requirements: None.
