 JERSEY is officially the sunniest spot in the British Isles. New data from the Met Office reveals the largest Channel Island soaked up 2,331.6 hours of sunshine last year, 342 more than anywhere else in mainland UK.

Amanda Burns, chief of Visit Jersey, said: "We're delighted with the news that Jersey is officially the sunniest spot in the British Isles for the fourth year running.

"With Brits starved of sun over the winter months, our visitors are dreaming of sunnier days."
